EDITORIAL

Since the adoption of the Consultative Dialogue Framework (CDF), EACSOF has taken advantage of the opportunity and engaged various stakeholders both at national and regional level to influence policies. EACSOF Kenya Chapter has been in the fore front of ensuring prompt and efficient implementation of the CDF and dialogue process. At the National level, EACSOF has worked closely with the Ministry of East Africa Affairs, Commerce and Tourism (State Department of East African Affairs) to initiate and launch the National Dialogue Committee. This has enabled Kenya's Private Sector, Civil Society and Other Interest Groups to prepare for the Annual Secretary Generals Forums. National policy resolutions have been developed and ready for presentation for the 4th SG's Forum. As the Apex body, other Kenyan CSOs have also been keen to exploit the platform to influence policy nationally, regionally and even in global arena.

This edition (March 2015 – September 2015) focusses on various developments in EACSOF Kenya Chapter, its members, the EAC and beyond. It also reflects on various Civil Society Organisations' initiatives, including important meetings, workshops, conferences as well as highlights of 2015 Key successes and an update on EACSOF Kenya Provisional Work Plan for 2015.

1.0 CONSOLIDATING REGIONALISATION OF CIVIL SOCIETY IN EAC

1.1 EACSOFF & Mombasa Port Initiative CSOs Forge Partnership

The workshop was organized to enable members of EACSOFF dialogue and share lessons and experiences to ensure more consolidated regionalisation agenda. The workshop (that was supported by TMEA Kenya) was held at Lake Naivasha Sopa Resort on 25th to 28th March and brought together the EACSOFF Governing Council delegates from all the EAC member states; EACSOFF Kenya Chapter National Working Group; Mombasa Port Initiative Reform CSO Group; EACSOFF Secretariats from both Arusha and Kenya.

The workshop was convened to deal with two main issues namely: Broader challenges of regionalization and building of a cohesive regional civil society formation in East Africa; and lessons' learnt from the implementation of the CDF and practical challenges of policy influencing at the regional level.

The main outputs of the workshop were: a) Documented lessons that will aid EACSOFF member organisations in building more appropriate programmes to promote market integration and poverty reduction; b) Better understanding of the progress made by different chapters in institutionalization of EACSOFF (registration, membership, strategic planning, etc); c) More cohesive CSO partners in the Mombasa Port Initiative who also understand the significance of their work to regional integration; d) A draft framework of engagement between EACSOFF and the CSO partners in the Mombasa Port Initiative; and e) A draft framework of engagement among the CSO partners in the Mombasa Port Initiative.

2.0 CIVIL SOCIETY ORGANIZATIONS' ENGAGEMENT WITH EAC INSTITUTIONS

2.1 EALA - CSO Engagement Framework

EACSOFF developed a proposed framework for strengthening EALA - CSO collaboration, which was developed with representatives from each national chapter including 2 meetings in Arusha (Nov 2013) and Nairobi Feb 2014). This initiative builds on gaps that already exist on Consultative Dialogue Framework.

The Consultative meeting between the East African Civil Society Organizations' Forum (EACSOFF) and the East African Legislative Assembly (EALA) Speaker was conducted on 21st May 2015 at EALA Committee room. The objective of the meeting was to present the proposed EALA-CSOs engagement mechanism framework, gather the opinions and recommendation of the speaker on the proposal and get his guidance on how the engagement process could be carried onward.

The Speaker remarked that there were many CSOs operating in the region calling for need for proper framework to lessen loss of resources. He recommended that EACSOFF being a regional body was the most appropriate organ for EALA engagement with civil society and could easily contribute and ensure success of integration. In his statements the Rt. Hon. Speaker said he considers CSOs as the fourth arm of government and that people representation cannot be complete without the work of CSOs.

The Speaker encouraged the EACSOFF to work together with his office to complete the draft document on how collaboration could be achieved. He emphasized that the way of collaboration must be based on the EAC treaty and must anchor on what is happening in the community as well as aim at working with all key institutions. The speaker reiterated that his expectation was that the EACSOFF structures in the partner states were representative enough and that they were not exclusive for some CSOs only.

He observed that most governments had handled CSOs with caution because of funding they get and their activities. He said that EALA will be careful to deal with CSOS whose mission, goals and objective are well-matched with those of the community. He further said that EALA will seek to understand the financiers of the CSOs and their activities and only invite organizations with the interest of the community at heart.
